Whether you're seeking a vegetarian meal, hoping for a few hours' rest, or looking for help expressing yourself in an unfamiliar language, there's an app to come to your rescue. Here are a few of our favorites for savvy travelers.

WHEREVER YOU GO, THESE INGENUOUS ONLINE RESOURCES ARE DESTINED TO SUPPORT YOUR TRAVEL.

What would we do without travel apps and websites? They put all the information we need in the palms of our hands. From airfare and hotel price comparisons to restaurant reviews and weather forecasts, we can't plan travel without them.

You could say a journey of a thousand kilometers begins with a single app—but in truth, there are dozens of indispensable apps designed to help make your trip a success. You're familiar with (and probably using) many of the better-known resources, but here are a few that we think you'll want to add to your collection.

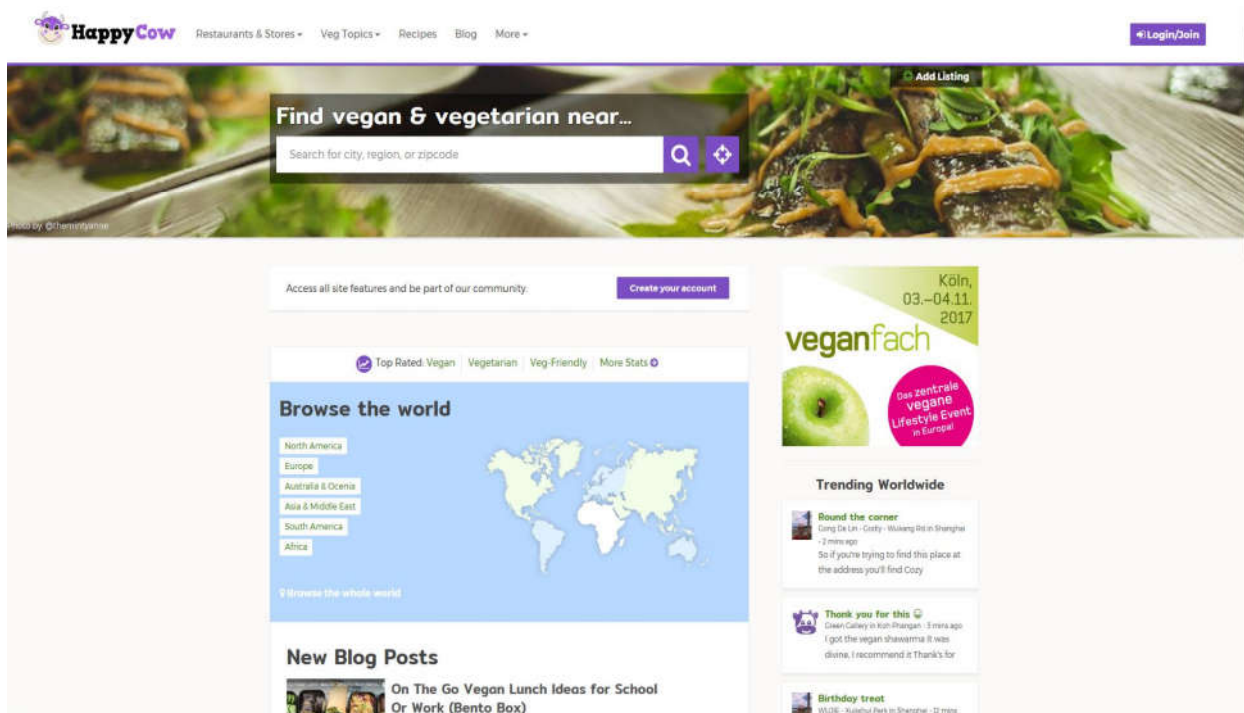

DayUse. When a long flight on a redeye is followed by a long layover, wouldn't it be nice to enjoy a few hours of rest, relaxation, and privacy? More than 4,000 hotels in 20 countries make rooms available during the day and early evening through the DayUse website, Android app, and iOS app. From New York to Paris and Berlin to Dubai, the service provides access to rooms for up to 75% less than the price of an overnight stay.

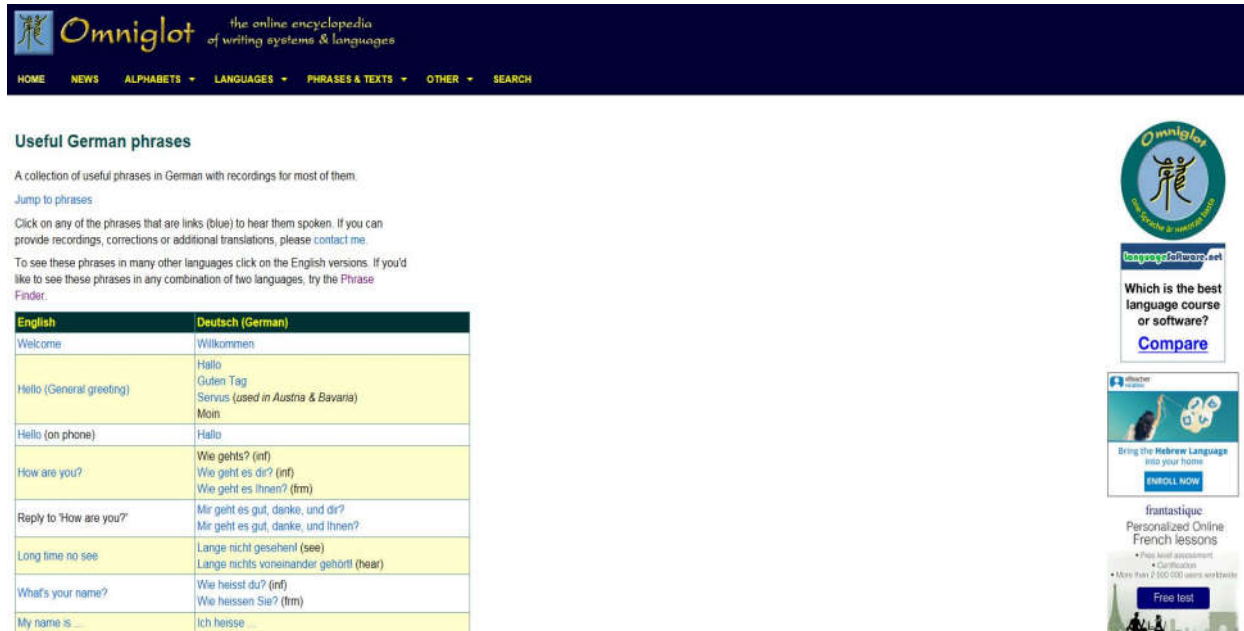

GeoGuessr. If you were dropped at random into a given street or neighborhood anywhere on the planet, could you figure out where in the world you were just based on what you saw? GeoGuessr puts you into that scenario virtually. It's not exactly a travel tool, but it's a great way to test your memory of places you've been and keep yourself entertained while waiting for flights to board. You can play online or install the iOS app.

HappyCow. This one is handy for vegetarians, vegans, and the MICE professionals responsible for accommodating group members' special dietary requirements. Available online and in Android app and iOS app versions, HappyCow provides information about vegetarian and vegan dining options and health food stores in cities throughout the world.

Omniglot. Here's a one-stop shop for learning basic phrases in just about any language you can imagine, from Abkhaz to Zulu. This resource is available online only, and you can search the database by language here or by phrase here. In addition to the phrases you're most likely to find useful, such as "good day," "thank you," and "what does this cost," you can learn some amusing phrases contributed via crowdsourcing. Sound files accompany many of the words and phrases, which makes it easier to learn correct pronunciation.
